Dallas Green

The Green family: Dana, Douglas, Sylvia, Dallas, John, Kimberly

All winter he said that the 1980 Phillies were going to be different from the team that finished fourth in the National League East in 1979. In order to set that transformation in process, Dallas Green was going to let everyone know real early in spring training what he expected from the Phillies.

Green worked hard all winter preparing for the moment when he would face his team for the first time and he had come up with an idea. Staring the players in the face were two large signs with red lettering that said, "WE, NOT I." And that is the way this big, gregarious man from Delaware wants the Phillies to think and play the game of baseball.

"I think the Phillies got away from the team concept of the game last year," said Green.

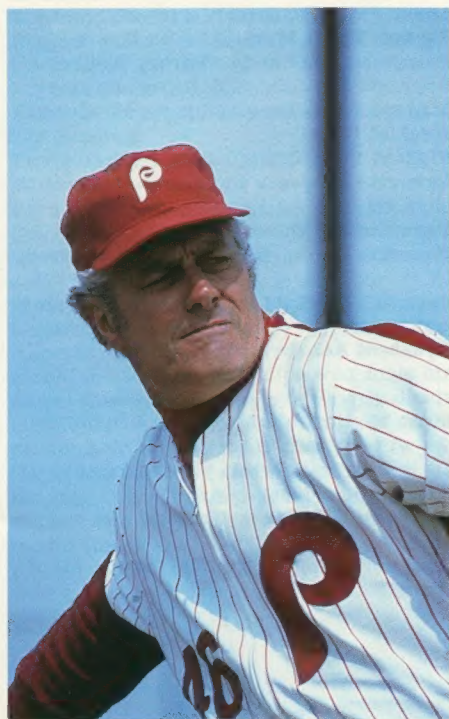

"I don't want the 1980 Phillies to be after individual goals. Baseball is a game that requires a tremendous amount of individual skills. But when you get right down to it you win in this game as a TEAM and that's what we're going to be this season."

Dallas Green is 6-5, 230 pounds with wavy hair now streaked with gray and a voice that has the potential to shatter windows. He looks imposing and seems like a man destined to command the leadership role he now occupies at a crucial time in the history of the Phillies.

When Paul Owens decided to make the move last August and replace low-key Danny Ozark with the volatile Green, there were some skeptics in the Phillies clubhouse. Since that time Green has had a great deal of communication with his athletes and they appear ready to give this energetic man the chance to lead them to a land they have seen up close but haven't been able to reach.

The Phillies won three straight division titles under Danny Ozark before a combination of poor play and injuries dropped the club to the status of also-ran. They will be a different team under Dallas Green.

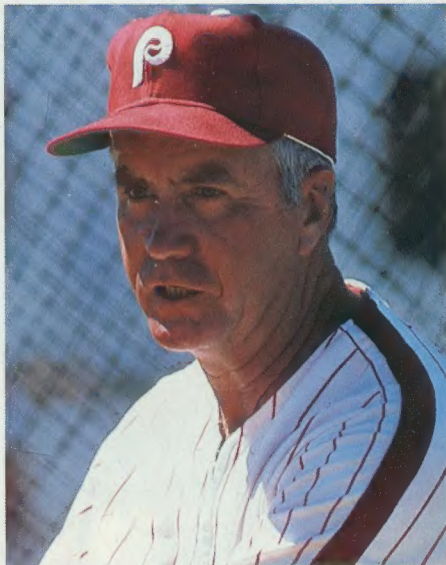

Stand by, because 1980 promises to be very, very interesting.

The HR Victims of Schmidt and Luzinski

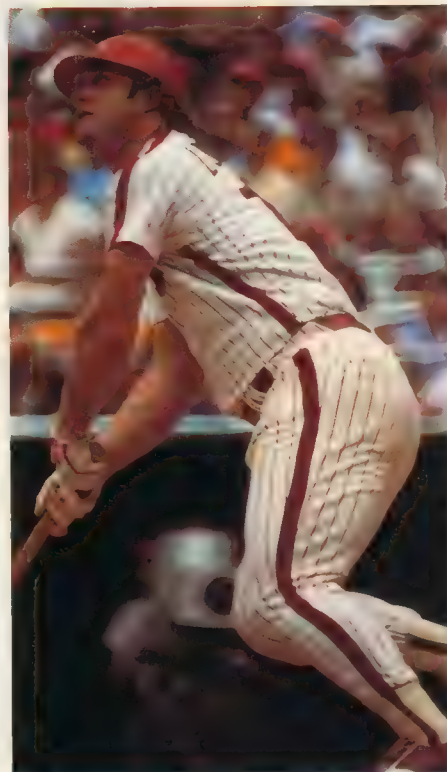

Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt have played a total of 15 years and 75 days in the major leagues and have accumulated a total of 439 home runs. Luzinski has hit 204 round trippers while Schmidt, who three times has led the majors in homers, has blasted 235 homers.

This section of the 1980 Yearbook is about the victims of some of those round trippers and why Luzinski and Schmidt have success against certain pitchers. Both players are quick to point out they have been fairly lucky and certainly don't consider anyone in the league easy to hit.

LUZINSKI

STEVE RENKO: "He always seemed to get ahead of me and then would make a mistake with his breaking ball."

BOB FORSCH: "I've been real lucky off him. He makes good pitches to me but I hit the ball where's it's pitched. I've hit some home runs off him to the opposite field and have been lucky enough to be in a good groove many times when I've faced him."

ANDY MESSERSMITH: "I just seemed to read him right. He had all kinds of good pitches and could change speeds as good as anyone in baseball."

RICK REUSCHEL: "He's changed his style and gone from a power pitcher to a sinker ball. He's as tough as anyone around when he's got his good stuff. It has to be tough for any pitcher to pitch in Wrigley Field."

CRAIG SWAN: "It's either feast or famine off that guy. He throws real hard and goes right up the ladder with his fastball. I've been lucky enough to hit some home runs off him but he strikes me out a lot. Real tough pitcher!"

DON SUTTON: "I like hitting at Dodger Stadium and we always seem to see Sutton in every series. He's around the plate all the time and is not afraid to challenge a hitter. Has all the pitches and can really make you look bad with his breaking ball."

BURT HOOTON: "I just seem to have a lot of success with the Dodgers staff and Hooton is another guy we see a lot. His knuckle curve is one of the toughest pitches in the league and he can be very nasty."

SCHMIDT

JERRY REUSS: "I have a little advantage against a lefty like Jerry. He'll challenge me with his fast ball and I'm a fast ball hitter."

FRED NORMAN: "I've hit a lot off the Reds pitchers over the years and Freddie always seemed to be pitching against us. He has great off-speed stuff and I've been lucky enough to be in a good groove when I faced him."

PHIL NIEKRO: "Once a game I seem to hit a ball in the air down the left field line off him and sometimes they go out. Nobody likes the knuckleball and Niekro is the best."

NINO ESPINOSA: "Never could get me out. Tried knocking me down and hitting me, but I still hit him pretty good. I think he was nervous. (Just kidding Nino!)"

RANDY JONES: "I've faced him so many times that sooner or later I'm going to hit a ball out of the ballpark off him. You have to have good fundamentals and discipline to have any success off Randy."

BRUCE KISON: "You mean I've got four off him? Pure luck. Don't know how I did it. I'm glad he's in the other league now."

STEVE ROGERS: "I've had some Jarry Park cheapies off him with the wind blowing out. That man is unhittable when he's on. Comes right over the top with a great sinker and breaking ball. He challenges me and I bear down real hard against him. Like Jones, I see a lot of him and have been lucky enough to hit a few home runs."

As usual Pete Rose was dressed early and ready to get on with another spring training. It was early March and Rose was preparing to start his 18th season in the major leagues. He walked into an office at the Carpenter Complex in Clearwater, Fla. and asked for the Phillies new Media Guide.

Thumbing through the book, he came to page 41 which says, 14—ROSE, PETER EDWARD and a smile came to his face. You see Pete Rose's biography doesn't end on page 41. It also takes up pages 42 and 43 because there is so much to list about this incredible man and what he has accomplished since bursting on the scene with the Reds in 1963.

When you think about Pete Rose's statistics, you think about base hits, lots of them, 3,372 to be exact. That figure ranks him 6th on the all-time list and if he has a Pete Rose type season, he'll move past Honus Wagner and Tris Speaker into 4th place on the list.

That will place him in good position to overtake Stan Musial's all-time National League mark of 3,630 hits sometime in 1981, a record that Rose really wants to add to his already impressive collection of achievements.

This page documents the statistical part of Rose's great career and where he ranks in different categories in the National League and the all-time rankings. A durable performer who has collected 200 or more hits in ten seasons, batted over 600 times 12 straight years, scored over 100 runs six of the last eight years and led the league in doubles four of the past six years, Pete Rose should continue to pile up the numbers as he starts his second year in a Phillies uniform.

A Minor League Review

Jack Pastore (left) and Howie Bedell are the new heads of the Phillies minor league department. Pastore is the Director of Scouting, while Bedell serves as the Director of the Minor Leagues. The pair had been assistants to Dallas Green when he was the department head.

Pastore came to the Phillies in 1976 after 10 years in the front office of the Baltimore Orioles. Bedell was a professional player (outfielder) from 1957 to 1969 before managing five years with the Phils. He joined the front office in 1974.

The future of the Phillies is on very solid ground as witnessed by the excellent season turned in by the minor league department a year ago.

Four of the six minor league teams played championship baseball, 17 players won all-star honors, two pitchers led their leagues in wins, two gained earned run average titles, there was one batting champion, a Most Valuable Player award and a Pitcher of the Year winner.

One of the Phillies two rookie league clubs, Bend, Oregon, won the championship in the Northwest League. Tom Harmon's club won the Southern Division and then beat Walla Walla in the post-season playoffs.

Helena, Montana, the other rookie classification club, captured the Southern Division in the Pioneer League before dropping the playoffs.

Oklahoma City under Lee Elia, now the Phillies third base coach, was the American Association Western Division champion. The 89ers, however, bowed to Evansville in the playoffs. The fourth champion was Spartanburg, S.C. The Phillies took second half honors in the Western Carolinas League and were beaten in the playoffs by the first half winners, Greenwood.

Overall, the six clubs posted a 376-311 record and a .547 percentage.

Righthanders Scott Munninghoff (Reading) and Tom Hart (Peninsula) led their respective leagues in wins. Hart also won an ERA title as did Bob Walk (Reading). First-year outfielder Julio Bruno hit .385 at Helena to walk away with the Pioneer League batting championship.

Bob Dernier, a lightning fast outfielder at Peninsula, was the Most Valuable Player in the Carolina League. He led the league with 77 stolen bases. Teammate Hart was named the Pitcher of the Year.

Helena's Bill (Junior) Darkis, an outfielder, established a league record by driving in 83 runs in just 69 games and also leading the league in homers with 20.

*League Leader

Philadelphia Gold

Gold and its high price have dominated the financial world over the past year.

But, in the baseball world, the Phillies are dominating the Gold. The Phillies are the kings of Gold when it comes to the best defensive players in the National League.

Four Phillies have been named to the league's Gold Glove teams each of the last two seasons. Last year's quartet included:

★ Garry Maddox, the premier centerfielder; who won his fifth straight trophy.

★ Third baseman Mike Schmidt made it four in a row.

★ Catcher Bob Boone bounced Johnny Bench from the team in 1978 and repeated again.

★ Second baseman Manny Trillo became a first-time winner.

Phillies fans are still trying to figure out how Larry Bowa was robbed of the Gold. The greatest fielding shortstop percentage-wise the game's ever seen committed just six errors a year ago. But, he was mysteriously left off the team which was selected by a poll of managers and coaches.

Bowa was a member of the 1978 team along with Maddox, Schmidt and Boone.

Through THE SPORTING NEWS and Rawlings Sporting Goods Company, the outstanding defensive players began getting some recognition with the annual awarding of the Gold Gloves. It all began back in 1957 when one team was selected from the major leagues.

The following season, a team was named for each league.
